

Computer Laboratory

Vision:

Through computer laboratories, the College of Nursing seeks to provide a high level of education and practical training for primary studies students and the receipt of idea and knowledge of high quality. Knowledge is the motivation force in spreading development and building high scientific and practical skills for students, qualifying and providing them with them, in response to the requirements of human development capable of keeping pace with scientific developments International and its various applications in technologies information and computer.

Mission:

Providing an educational and practical environment that stimulates creativity and excellence for students of the College of Nursing in the fields of information technology and computer and linking it in the field of practical and theoretical nursing sciences in order to prepare students who have experience and practice in the use of computer and scientific research to serve the community.

Objectives

1. Excellence in the fields of computer and informational technologies for students of the College of Nursing, including and educational, to high quality and international quality.
2. Developing and developing academic programs in the field of computer science to keep pace with modern developments in a manner that is appropriate for the needs of nursing specialties and society.
3. Developing the qualitative, cognitive and practical students 'skills.

4. Providing a stimulating environment for students of the Faculty of Nursing for Computer use and information technology in the fields of scientific research.
5. Development and development of students' skills and capabilities in line with scientific and technological developments.